

MEET Clarence Medeiros, OF 'ĀINA AHIU FARM ON HAWAI'I ISLAND.

“I just wish that local kids eat more kalo. I noticed at our family gatherings the older folks eat it, but the younger folks don’t. There are plenty of ‘ono (delicious) kinds and they just have to try it to see which ones are their favorite.”

- Clarence grew the heaviest kalo recorded at 50 pounds — Guinness Book of World Records confirmed in 2023!
- By paying attention to where the ‘āina (land) is fertile, the movement of the sun and patterns of the rains, Clarence can consistently grow large kalo.

UNIVERSITY OF HAWAI'I at MANOA

COLLEGE OF TROPICAL AGRICULTURE
AND HUMAN RESILIENCE

This institution is an equal opportunity provider. Created by Hawai'i 'Ulu Co-op.